ODELL NOW CALLS

"Yells from Albany," He Declares, Are Being Let Out at Roosevelt Dictation.

Former Gov. Odell, at the Republican Club to-day, assured reporters that the fight between himself and his enemies is to be to a finish, and that as a result there would be some interesting additions to the literature of New York State politics. He was evidently in deadly earnest when he began talking. There was no need for questions.

He began about Gov. Higgins: "This gentleman up in Albany who is doing so much yelling now," said Mr. Odeil, "has had starch injuected into his backbone by Roosevelt. When Higgins talks the voice is the voice of Jacob Higgins, but the hand is the hand and Thirtieth street.

The gun was suddenly discharged, and the full charge of ane barrel entered Mr. Horner's side.

Doctors worked over the man for two hours, but he died without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Horner was fifty-five years of age and at one time the Southern representative of the Lorillards. Dr. Simpson married Mr. Horner's only daughter. She was in the house when the shooting occurred.
